

The Start for Future initiative (SFF) is a fast growing alliance of academia, industry, startups and public organisations

Geographical distribution

Strasczeg Center for Entrepreneurship

The Start for Future initiative is a fast-growing alliance of academia, industry, startups and public organisations which serves as an open hub of connected regional valleys in Europe driving systemic innovation.

It builds on a democratic and scalable model to connect talents and early-stage startups with its assets and broad network of industry partners, addressing SDGs and combining it with highly impactful, profitable and scalable business models.

Description

Flagships

Deliverables and milestones

SFF builds on the 4 pillars "SFF Open Incubation Programme", "SFF Open Incubator", SFF Academy", and "SFF Regional Innovation Valleys".

It offers:

- An international community platform to build a strong network
- A three-phase programme which fosters startups and co-creation projects
- A framework to create impact driven, entrepreneurial eco-systems
- A cooperative as an organizational unit that gives ownership to all members
